Differentiating Instruction for English Learners (Level I)

English learners come to school with a wide variety of unique academic needs and with a wide range of linguistic, culture, language, personality, interests, and attitudes toward learning. Effective educators recognize that all of these factors impact EL success, and they understand the need to differentiate instruction to meet student's needs based on their proficiency level in the language of instruction. This online workshop will guide language and content teachers on the topic of differentiation and align them with the state's assessment.

Differentiating Instruction for English Learners (Level II)

As an extension of Differentiating Instruction Level 1, Differentiation Level 2 explores a more complex task and provides practice with tools such as task analysis that you will apply to your own teaching practice. This workshop will guide educators, school and district teams, and SEA staff through various means to differentiate based on students' performance at specific levels of language proficiency and to select specific scaffolding strategies to support students in meeting challenges identified via an in-depth task analysis.

Formative Assessment for English Learners (Level 1)

The ELPA21 formative assessment process is intended to provide a thorough and thoughtful framework to support ELs on their journey toward English Language Proficiency. The formative assessment process is a valuable tool for providing feedback and understanding student progress towards proficiency while aligning these measures with the English Language Proficiency Standards (ELPS) and other state standards.

Formative Assessment for English Learners (Level 2)

This workshop will review the formative assessment framework from FA Level 1 and provide new strategies to implement short-cycle formative assessment practices and apply to a variety of instructional contexts. The practices shared in this workshop will assist educators to collect, analyze, and act on evidence throughout the lesson cycle to improve content and language achievement for English learners. This workshop is appropriate for both EL specialists and content area educators to leverage the assets that English learners bring to the learning context to maximize language and content growth and attainment.

Standards, Assessments, and Score Reports

This workshop will guide educators, school and district teams, and SEA staff through an incisive overview of the ELPA21 standards, assessments and score reports, aligned with your state's assessment branding. This workshop is appropriate for all levels and roles and is especially recommended for EL educators who are content area educators who instruct English Learners.
